

Escaping Poverty Traps
Connecting the Chronically Poor to Economic Growth

Sam Hickey is Senior Lecturer in Development Studies at the Institute for Development Policy and Management, University of Manchester. His research focuses on the politics of development, including work on poverty reduction and social protection, citizenship and participation, NGOs and civil society, human rights and the use of political analysis in development. He has published journal articles and/or edited collections on each of the above topics, and conducted research in Cameroon, Uganda and Zambia. He currently co-ordinates research on 'Adverse Incorporation and Social Exclusion' within the Chronic Poverty Research, and was a contributing author for the Chronic Poverty Report 2008.